Visiting Assistant Professor in African American History

The Department of History at the University of Oregon invites applications for a one-year visiting assistant professor position in African American history, to begin Sept. 16, 2020 (AY 2020-21), with the possibility of renewal for AY 2021-22. The research field is open but the successful candidate will teach both halves of the African American history survey and advanced courses in their area of specialization. The teaching responsibility is five courses (2-2-1 on the quarter system, the same teaching load as our tenured faculty). The department is especially interested in candidates whose teaching, research, and mentorship would complement and support the new Black Studies minor. Due to public health concerns related to COVID-19, this position will be remote in AY 2020-21 and all teaching will be done online. The history department will assign a faculty mentor to support the successful candidate. The department also has a dedicated graduate specialist in digital pedagogy who will be available for consultation throughout the year. The salary is $60,000, plus a generous benefits package.

Candidates should submit a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, and the names and email addresses of 3 professional references, all in PDF format, no later than August 19, 2020 to lpinchin@uoregon.edu.

Zoom interviews will be conducted the week of August 24, and a decision will be reached by August 28. Fall quarter begins Sept. 29, 2020. Applicants must have completed their Ph.D. by Sept. 15, 2020.

The UO is an EO/AA/ADA Institution committed to cultural diversity. The University encourages all qualified individuals to apply, and does not discriminate on the basis of any protected status, including veteran and disability status.

https://www.aaihs.org/resources/af-am-job-openings/